BPHC Offers Lean to PPS Members

BPHC is excited to offer Lean, the evidence-based approach for organizational improvement, to our PPS members. Organizational leadership are invited to an orientation about Lean taking place on Tuesday, Nov. 28 (details below).

DSRIP success is based on driving improvement, ensuring efficiency in our work, changing processes, and reducing costs. Lean is a change management and process improvement method based on proven principles and world-class practices that can improve your care delivery.

Lean complements the BPHC Performance Improvement Incentive Program and is an excellent opportunity to improve performance across your organization. Lean projects are aligned with DSRIP goals and enhance organizations' VBP readiness.

Our Lean program includes training and technical assistance such as:

Training for leadership and front-line staff in change management and accountability

Specific Lean courses for senior leadership, project leaders and lean team participants

On-site coaching

Technical support to help teams achieve DSRIP performance targets

There are a limited number of projects and team openings for Lean. At our meeting, Dr. Alan Cooper of the Tudor Advisory Group will discuss Lean practice and provide an overview of the Lean program that BPHC will launch this winter.
